

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Burglars who were in a fair way to make a profitable haul from the store of A. J. Cavanaugh at Danville during the early hours of Thursday morning were evidently frightened away before they could make off with the loot which they were packing in bags, having filled three with cigars, tobacco and cigarettes to the value of about $400. Other bags left when the men took flight would indicate that they intended to clean out the entire stock of smoking materials, valued at about $1,000.

The theory is that the burglars were frightened as the result of the playful blowing of a police whistle by one of a group of four men who had been doing night work at the mill of the Assawamuck Woolen company, fear the Cavanaugh store and were on their way home about 2:30 a. m.

Entrance to the store was gained by forcing a door, the implement used being found Thursday morning by Deputy Sheriff Charles D. Ayer. The burglars had packed three bags when they were disturbed and made off, while four more empty ones were found in the place.

It is believed that the break was made by the same parties that recently looted the Clark store at Goodyear and who probably are responsible for a series of breaks at stores in towns hereabouts where smokers' supplies are kept.

Installation of new machinery at the Ballouville mill, where Hector McConnell is superintendent for the Attawaugan company, is far advanced. All new drawing frames have been installed and new roving and spinning frames are to be put in. The loom equipment also is being modernized, Drapers replacing the type of looms that have been in use.

New beams have been put in and the mill structure otherwise strengthened in carrying out the improvement in equipment plans that have been underway for some time. Not all the new machinery that is to be installed has arrived as yet, but it will come along as rapidly as orders for what is needed can be filled by the manufacturers.

Lillian Conrad, 17, who was ordered committed this week to the state farm for women, but who could not be received at the institution and has since been held at Brooklyn jail, will be brought to Danielson this (Friday) afternoon to be used as a witness in a case against an East Killingly man who has been arrested on an allegation that he is responsible for a criminal act.

Windham county sheep raisers are interested in measures intended to protect the industry and which are now under consideration by the committee on agriculture of the general assembly.

Henry Dorrance, Plainfield, president of the Connecticut Sheep Breeders' association, was one of the principal speakers before the committee. Mr. Dorrance, an enthusiastic sheep raiser, told the committee of the amount to be made in the business if it is properly safeguarded by the state. Chiefly, protection is needed from various dogs.

Mr. Dorrance paid a fine tribute to the co-operation received from James M. Whittlesley of the bureau of domestic animals. Mr. Dorrance cited an instance in which farmers in this section of the state had lost money on sending surplus milk to Boston, and said that if the amount invested in surplus dairy cows had been invested in sheep the farmers concerned would have come out with a profit instead of a deficit.

Among the measures for the protection of sheep advocated at the meeting was a project under which the state would advance funds at the rate of $1 a rod for sheep fencing up to 150 rods. This would form an area sufficient to the needs of fifteen sheep, a provision being that the state lien the farm for the amount for a period of three years, after which if the farmer keeps a flock for that period the debt shall be discharged without cost; otherwise the sheep breeder shall be held to the state for the amount advanced.

Mr. Dorrance expressed himself as believing that the state might save money enough from reducing claims for depredations by dogs among sheep to make it a paying project.

It was with no little rejoicing that citizens of Killingly noted Thursday morning that Representative E. L. Darbie's bill providing for the construction of a state highway to Little Rest is among those that, in substitute form, will be favorably reported by the roads, rivers and bridges committee of the legislature. Only one other Windham county road building project will have a favorable report, the one providing for the West Thompson-Grovesville extension. Road building bills calling for appropriations totaling $2,378,000 were turned down in unfavorable reports by the roads committee.

The assurance is that the Little Rest project will not be further held up and that the construction of the nearly five miles of road will be undertaken this year. The total cost of the improvement is estimated at $228,000.

The Junior promenade, of special interest to high school students, will be held this year early in April. The West Thompson-Grovesville project calls for an expenditure of $30,000. The so-called Danielson-Little Rest road will be built as an extension of the state road.

Among the road bills of Windham county interest that were unfavorably reported were the ones providing for building a section of the line from Brooklyn to Putnam center and for sections of roads in Woodstock.

State police officers in charge of four prisoners who were shackled together attracted attention while the party stopped at a front street restaurant for a lunch. The prisoners were Joseph Simons of New Haven, Alcock Bromfield of New Haven and Albert Levine, who is believed to be a resident of New Britain, and another whose name was not obtained here. Officers Tomlin, Flynn and Frennell were in charge of the prisoners, who are charged with having been involved in the theft of $4,000 from the home of C. J. Malloy of Meriden, January 23.

The men were arrested in Providence by Inspector James Bona of the police department of that city and followed the tracing of the truck in which the stolen whiskey was conveyed from Meriden to the Rhode Island capital. Other arrests have been made in Meriden in connection with the case and it was stated on Thursday that still other arrests are to be looked for in connection with the case. The Connecticut state police with the police of Meriden and New Britain have been working on the case for the past two weeks.

In observance of a day of prayer participated in by the Federation of Women's Boards of Foreign Missions and the Connecticut Women's Home Missions Association, representatives of various churches of the city will gather at the Congregational church here this (Friday) afternoon at three o'clock for a prayer service.

Dr. James Becho, dean of the Boston Theological school, will be the speaker this evening at the third annual church home night at the Methodist Episcopal church. A musical program will be included in the arrangements of the evening. Seating will be free and a refreshment table will be set up by the church. A solo by Miss Grace L. Bennett, L. P. Batten will preside as toastmaster.

Miss M. G. Leonard will have the members of the W. C. T. U. at her home on South Main street for a meeting this afternoon.

Landlord E. C. Rogers of the Putnam inn has been in Vermont this week looking at thoroughbred cattle for the spin-did farm which has developed just west of this city.

Louis Wolf, who is a patient in a Boston hospital, where he underwent an operation for appendicitis this week, was reported Thursday as resting comfortably.

Voters of the town of Thompson will be called next week to pass upon the matter of appropriating $1,000 for the purchase of a tractor of caterpillar or tank type a snow plow and a road breaking plow to work and improve the roads during the winter.

Whether the investment will be made is to be decided at a special town meeting.

PUTNAM

Members of the appropriations committee and of the roads, rivers and bridges committee of the general assembly are expected to arrive in Putnam this (Friday) evening and will remain here tomorrow inspecting state road projects that are provided for in bills pending before the general assembly.

There was special interest here on Thursday in the fact that the bill providing for the building of a line of state highway from West Thompson to Grovesville will be favorably reported by the committee on roads, rivers and bridges, of which Senator Archibald Macdonald of this city is senate chairman, this bill being among the few to escape unfavorable reports which practically disposes of road building proposals calling for the expenditure of $2-378,000.

Only one other Windham county road building measure pending before the assembly will be favorably reported, that for a section of trunk line highway between a point a little more than a mile east of Danielson and the Rhode Island border at Little Rest. The West Thompson-Grovesville project calls for an expenditure of $30,000. The so-called Danielson-Little Rest road will be built as an extension of the state road.

Among the road bills of Windham county interest that were unfavorably reported were the ones providing for building a section of the line from Brooklyn to Putnam center and for sections of roads in Woodstock.

Mrs. L. M. Elliott of Thompson is to entertain the members of Putnam grange at dinner Saturday evening.

May 23 is fixed as the tentative date for an Old Home day celebration in Thompson and a dedication of a memorial to the town's soldiers who have fought in the nation's wars. A boulder weighing between 5 and 10 tons that is to be the basis of the memorial has this week been placed on the common at Thompson town.

Windham county sheep raisers have been at Hartford to appear before legislative committees this week in aid of the industry which many are trying to expand in Connecticut.

Poultry, fruit culture and dairying are subjects to be discussed in addresses that are to be delivered at an institute to be held in Woodstock Wednesday of next week under the auspices of the Woodstock Agricultural society and the Windham County Farmers' association. The speakers will be members of the faculty of the Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs.

Mr. and Mrs. James Smith, who have been guests of relatives here, returned on Thursday to their home in Burlington Vt.

Rev. John C. Stoddard of Rockport, Mass., will be the preacher at the services at the Baptist church Sunday.

WAUREGAN

At the Sunday morning service of the Congregational church an offering was received for the relief fund for starving children. It is a generous one.

Miss Lydia Haskell, who died at her home Thursday after an illness of several months, was the oldest member of the church and was much respected. The funeral was held Saturday at 1 o'clock at the home, Rev. William Frying officiating. Two hymns were sung by Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham of Norwich. There were beautiful flowers.

The bearers were P. T. Johnson, J. E. Westcott, E. Milton Tracy and J. T. Smith. Burial was in the family lot at Westfield cemetery in Danielson.

At the St. Valentine social in the chapel Monday evening all the young people were out and the evening was much enjoyed. The decorations were in charge of Dorothy Smith, Florence Leach, Mildred Leach and Robert Bethell. Music, tableaux and games were enjoyed. Refreshments were served by the older members of the Y. P. society.

Miss Eva Maynard was graduated from the Mercy hospital, Springfield, Mass., last week and was the highest honor in the class which was a large one. Miss Maynard is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Maynard and was born in this village. Many friends congratulated her on her work at the hospital.

Stiff? Sore?

A lame back, a sore muscle or a stiff joint often is considered too lightly by the sufferer. It should be remembered that backache, rheumatic pains, stiffness, soreness, sallow skin and puffiness under the eyes are symptoms of kidney and bladder trouble—and these certainly should not be neglected.

Foley Kidney Pills

help the kidneys eliminate from the system the poisonous waste and acids that cause these aches and pains. They act promptly and effectively to restore weak, overworked or diseased kidneys and bladder to healthy, normal condition.

J. E. Simmons, 409 E. 50th St., Portland, Ore., writes: "I was troubled with backache and urinary trouble. I tried Foley Kidney Pills and will say that I highly recommend them to anyone troubled in that way, as they are excellent."
